Not to take the alightest part in the election, far he such a course from we, but he cause propriety would forbid me to hold an office under these circumstances, and because every American, whem the confidence of any considerable portion of his fellow critizens might designate for that high station, ought to need the trial he most undergo in his own country. But when I look to the many able and tried mea, whem our party includes in its ranks, I consider such a result scarcely within the limits of possibility.

Consider such a result scarcely within the limits of possibility.

Wheth has been said recently in relation to the jucrease of the duties on some articles, readered necessary by the heavy debt with which the country was burthened by the last administration. An incident occurred in the discussion on the Revenue bill in the Sepate, that sufficiently proves the insincerity of those who have clambred so much about the levying of those duties so much complained of. The question was, whether imported jeweiry should be lated twelve and a half, or twenty per cent. The smallest duty was supported by the Locofocos with considerable seal. Mesers. Wright, King and Calheun, contended that is volve and a half per cent duty, was amply sufficient, while Mr. Clay and the Whigs generally, insisted that it should be increased to twenty per cent. The question was taken, and it was agreed, that a duty of TWENTT PER CENT should be imposed upon all imported jewelry.

The people can readily perceive the insincerity of those who clamor so loudly against a tax upon necessaries, and at the same time oppose with equal violence, a duty upon luxuries.—Kacz. Post.

Doings in Texas—More Wholesale Lyachag.—A week of two ago, says the Natchiteches Herald, we gave an account of the trial of one Jackson, in Harrison county, Texas, for murder; of the minner in which he was tried; how he was acquitted, and how be and some of his friends their scized the county judge, McHenry, and brought him into Natchiteches, where be is new in jail, awaiting his trial, under an indictinent for carrying off cogrece from that parish. It sew appears that when Jackson returned to Texas, be was attack.

he is now in Jail, awaiting his trial, under an indictment for carrying off negroes from that parish. It now appears that when Jackson returned to Texas, he was attack-ed and killed by four or five friends of McHenry; and they, in their turn, have been captured and Aug, without any core-mony, by the triands of Jackson! Where is this bloody tragesly to end!
